Israel, Syria Pound Borders Again Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Israel and Syria continued slugging each other on the ground and in the air today for the third straight day. Tel Aviv claimed that Israelis seized Syrian military positions in the Golan Heights, but Damascus said its forces "are driving back enemy tanks and armored units."

Defense Witnesses Testify at Ouster

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. (AP)-The defense began calling witnesses Thursday in an effort to counter charges that Pemiscot County sheriff permitted flagrant violations of state liquor and gambling laws and was guilty of other misconduct.

Sheriff Clyde Orton's attorney James E. Reeves, called a retired FBI agent and three Missouri Liquor Control Board officers as he opened his defense.

The retired federal agent, Earl Porter of Poplar Bluff, testified he visited Pemiscot County frequently while an agent but had not observed liquor or gambling law violations.

George Liebig of Cape Girardeau, a district supervisor for the control board, said he had not received requests from outof-state liquor control officers for assistance in halting whisky shipments from Missouri.

The board's three-month investigation in Pemiscot County late last year was prompted by reports from Mississippi liquor control officers that whisky was foreign military sales measure that has been the vehicle for the current debate on the U.S. role

The Senate Wednesday voted 81 to 10 to repeal the 1964 Tonkin Gulf resolution which former President Lyndon Johnson used to escalate the war.

It also would take much of the sting out of a separate resolution repealing the Tonkin Gulf measure which administration

Seeking End to Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States, a major victim of terrorist attacks on diplomats. asked the Latin American countries today to join in steps aimed at stopping such assaults. Secretary of State William P.

Rogers gave the U.S. plea to the Organization of American States (OAS) whose first General Assembly, now meeting here, is expected to deal with the terrorism issue.

Besides the killing of a U.S. ambassador in Guatemala and the kidnaping of a U.S. ambassador in Brazil, there have been an array of other incidents involving U.S. diplomats of lesser rank also.

And other countries, such as West Germany, have also suffered attacks on their diplomats in this hemisphere.

"I hope this assembly can deal effectively with terrorism and kidnaping, especially in their international aspects," Rogers told hemisphere foreign ministers at the OAS gathering.

On other subjects, Rogers announced that President Nixon will soon ask the U.S. Senate to approve U.S. ratification of the 1968 treaty for the prohibition of nuclear weapons in Latin Amer-

He denied that the United States rates Latin American interest as "secondary or of low

Syrian antiaircraft fire tore a three-foot hole in the wing of an Italian DC8 jetliner as it flew 31,000 feet over Damascus, but the plane made a safe landing in Beirut and none of the 104 persons aboard was hurt. The Syrian hit, believed to be a missile, punctured a fuel tank containing more than 100 tons of aviation kerosene and knocked out the two port engines. Members of the crew said it was a "miracle" they were able to reach the Lebanese capital.

Egyptian President Gamal
Abdel Nasser meanwhile rejected the new U.S. plan for Middle East peace, charging it would leave Israel in possession of the Golan Heights territory which it seized from Syria in the 1967

The Israeli government called home its ambassador from Washington to discuss the American proposal, but the semiofficial Jerusalem newspaper Davar called it "a bad plan which can lead not to a permanent settlement but to an immediate conflagration.

Syria said 40 of its MIGs rose to battle the Israeli air force, the largest number of interceptors the Syrians have admitted sending up in a single engagement since the 1967 war.

The communique said the Syrian pilots had shot down five planes, while antiaircraft fire from the ground brought down a sixth. It said two of the planes crashed in Syrian territory. their pilots were captured, and

Devlin Jailed

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - The Belfast Appeal Court ruled today that Bernadette Devlin must go to prison. A warrant for her arrest was to be issued later today.

The court rejected an application from Miss Devlin, the youngest member of the British House of Commons, to appeal to the House of Lords against a six-month sentence given her for incitement to riot and rioting. The House of Lords is Britain's highest court.

The 23-year-old Roman Catholic militant was first sentenced in Londonderry last Dec. 22 for her activities during street fighting last fall.

On Monday, Northern Ireland's lord chief justice, Lord McDermott, rejected her appeal against the sentence. Her defense lawyer then applied for permission to take the appeal to the Lords in London, and this was turned down today.

Miss Devlin won re-election in the British general election last week, and she is not expected to lose her seat because she goes to prison. The House of Commons will have to vote whether she remains a member, and it seemed most unlikely that with the threat of renewed religious warfare hanging over Northern Ireland, the legislators would inflame the Roman Catholic minority by ousting the young woman who has come to be known as their Joan of Arc.

An attorney for Mis Devlin, Tony Somers, told newsmen: "There is no legal move we can make now. We can only plead for a free pardon."

Dismissing her appeal then, he said Miss Devlin's interventions in the rioting "were far too aggressive and premature to rank as justifiable efforts to prevent the prospective danger of the police getting out of U.S. aircraft," the command said. It gave no assessment of damage to the North Vietnamese positions.

Ray V. Jeffrey, director of the industrial development section of the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, Jefferson City, told an audience of more than 100 persons Thursday night that "Sedalia has a choice - grow the way you want to or in spite of yourself."

The occasion was the fifth annual Industry Appreciation Banquet at Holiday Inn, which climaxed a week-long observation honoring the city's industry.

Remodeling Work Contract Awarded

The General Services Administration has awarded a $196,000 contract to a Decatur, Ill., firm for conversion and remodeling of the old post office building.

The announcement was made by the office of Congressman William Randall Friday afternoon.

The work, which is to be completed within 200 calendar days, involves painting, roofing and electrical work. When completed, the structure would house most federal agencies which regulates the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development

After outlining the rapid rate at which the state has expanded industrially, McDonnell said he congratulated William Hall, Sedalia industrial development director, and the city for the progress which has been made in industrial development here.

Agricultural Programs Are Praised in Report

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department has is-sued a fact sheet listing what it calls "selected items of progress" made under the agency's programs since the first of the

Apparently referring to one of its first actions more than a year ago when the administration decided to lower soybean price support rates, the department pointed to the currently strong oilseed market as a prime example of progress on the farm front.

"Recent actions of the department have made U.S. soybeans aggressively competitive in the market place, resulting in sales of record quantities with the largest growth in domestic use ever seen in one year," the report said.

Farmers placed fewer 1969crop soybeans under price support loans, the report said, and now are receiving larger prices on the free market, an increase from $2.23 per bushel national average last October to $2.52 in May, the department said.

The report also pointed to the general rise in U.S. farm exports expected for the year end-ing June 30—a total of about $6.5 billion, compared with $5.7 billion in 1968-69.

Export expansion work is taking two major directions: pressure for access to markets and accelerated market development activities," officials

The report also mentioned an increase in government food

Other Cambodian troops were said to be moving toward the provincial capital of Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of Phnom Penh. where the situation was reported quiet following several days of intermittent fighting. Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division reported uncovering a 150-ton enemy arms cache 13 miles inside Cambodia late Thursday. U.S. officers said they were not certain how much of the enemy's stockpile had been captured since U.S. and South Vietnamese forces entered Cambodia nearly two months ago. "If they had a year's worth of supplies out there, then we estimate that we got about 35 per cent of them, and if they had six months' worth, then we got about 70 per cent," one officer foes had also planned to debate at length later in the summer.

Allott moved shortly after agreement was reached for a final vote on the military sales measure at 4 p.m. Tuesday—the very day President Nixon said he would have all U.S. troops out of Cambodia.

While denying they were stalling, Republicans have managed to keep debate going with one amendment after another until President Nixon had a chance to fulfill his pledge that troops would be out of Cambodia by June 30.

Two hours before the final vote, the Senate will vote on the crucial amendment sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper. R-Ky., and Frank Church. D-Idaho, that would bar use of funds to support almost any kind of military activity in Cambodia without prior consultation with Congress. With the legal significance of the Cooper-Church amendment somewhat in doubt after adoption of several amendments to it, it is expected to pass handily.

The key vote now appears to be shaping up on the Allott amendment with administration critics planning to try to table it and hold to their intention of bringing it up under the Hatfield and McGovern names later.

Pills Require A Prescription, Druggists Say

Sedalia druggists expressed concern Friday over what they called the implication in a story published by The Democrat Thursday that "speed" type drugs were readily available in drug stores.

Thursday's story quoted a Sedalia youth who said, during the course of an exclusive interview, "You couldn't cut off the source of supply because there are too many of them that people don't know about. You can buy speed at any drug store, so there's no real way to prevent its being there."

A. B. Warren of Warren's RX drug store, Friday said "speed is not available as indicated."

When drug users refer to a drug as "speed," John Banion of Sedalia Drug said, they generally refer to methamphetamine. Banion said that stimulants, depressants and the diet pills referred to during Thursday's interview all require prescriptions.

'You can't just buy them. A doctor's prescription is required," he said.

city, and Seijen, 60 miles southeast of the capital. An Israeli communique said the raids, like those Thursday. were in retaliation for recent 'Syrian acts of aggression" and particularly for the heavy Syrian tank and artillery attack Wednesday night on Israeli posts in the Golan Heights.

Following the Israeli air raid Thursday, Israeli tanks and artillery attacked the Syrians all along the 50-mile cease-fire line, and Syria admitted 34 of its troops were killed and 65 wounded in some of the hardest fighting on Israel's frontiers since the 1967 war.

The Alitalia DC8 jet was near Damascus, flying from Tehran to Beirut and Rome, when a shell hit the left wing "and shook up the plane a little," said its pilot, Capt. Giorgio Pizzo, 38. He said he did not tell the passengers what had happened until they were approaching Beirut, and "they were all very calm.'

Fire trucks roared out to the plane as it landed, causing erroneous reports that its landing gear was on fire. The passengers were sent on to Rome on a plane of Lebanon's Middle East Airways. Nasser's rejection of the

The approval came to the

Ann Landers

Smart, But Dumb Leads to Grief

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 27 years old. She was an "A" student all the way through school. When it came to common sense, she didn't have much. Her grandmother used to say she was "book smart and life dumb."

Anne has a master's degree in English and taught in junior high for two years. Ten months ago she married a brilliant computer genius who gets lost on his way home from work and misplaces his paycheck regularly. He has trouble holding jobs because he becomes intrigued with afternoon TV soap operas and stays home from work. Recently, he became so enthralled with "Edge of Night" and "General Hospital" he faked illness for five days. Now he has fallen in love with "Sesame Street" and there is no telling when he will go back to his job.

Anne is pregnant and had to quit teaching last week. She told me yesterday her marriage was a mistake and she is fed up with the lazy lug. What should her father and I do? -Agonized Folks

Dear Ag: Nothing. It's her mistake and her lazy lug. Let her know you'll give her and the baby bed and board if she should need it but say nothing that might encourage her to leave her husband.

my birthday. I'm alone. My love just phoned to say his wife is ill and he can't leave her. This isn't the first time he has cancelled plans at the last minute. Of course there's nothing I can say or do. My evenings are spent sitting by the phone. Sometimes it rings. Sometimes it doesn't. I'm afraid to leave the apartment for fear he'll call and I'll miss him. I hesitate to invite friends over because he might drop by when someone is here.

I'm ashamed to tell you how long I've been living like this. I'll just sign off with a warning to other starry-eyed fools who think the role of the Other Woman is exciting and glamorous. It's a lousy life and a lonely one. The road is a rough one and it leads nowhere. I've wasted my youth and I have no future. — Tears In The Pillow

Dear Tears: Your message is plain. I hope the candidates read you loud and clear.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married eight years. We both want a family but I can't seem to get pregnant. He has been checked and the problem is mine, not his. Three doctors have told me the trouble is "psychological" and not organic. They have suggested adoption — and all three doctors have said. "After you

Dear Ann Landers: Today is adopt a child you will probably have your own.

The problem is my husband's big mouth. We have been interviewed by representatives of adoption agencies. When they ask him about church attendance he says. "Religion is a lot of garbage. Children should be raised to depend on themselves, not a phony crutch." I know we will never get a child if he doesn't stop that kind of talk. I've begged him to just keep quiet about this subject but he says, "I'm no hypocrite." What can I do? — Redding Calif.

Dear Red: You'd better start to contact adoption agencies which are not church-affiliated - if you're sure he wants a child. I'm not so sure he does.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) -Petitions are being circulated in Springfield asking that the city council-manager form of government here be replaced with the mayor-council system.

Changes called for in the petition include a mayor who would be paid a salary of $15,000, and councilmen from seven districts, each paid $5,000, instead of the present system of four council-men at large and five from districts.

A total of 5,700 names will have to be obtained to call an election.

Drugs on the Local Scene

Is is possible that 15,000 young people will gather on the grounds of the Washington monument for a planned smoke-in pot party July 4?

Rennie Davis, one of the Chicago 7 defendants, says that's what is scheduled and predicts a confrontation with others who will stage a flag demonstration.

A pot party at the Washington monument? Sounds fantastic! But is it? Aren't pot parties becoming sort of common place? Maybe not publicly yet, but privately they are all over the country. Does that mean in Sedalia, too?

There are many parents here who have not accepted as valid the comment that use of drugs by young people in Sedalia has proliferated during the past two years. To them, then, the disclosures of a Sedalia youth in a Democrat-Capital interview will come as a jolt. He declares there are about 30 pushers and 300 regular narcotic users here.

Drugs are not too difficult to obtain and not too expensive, the young fellow admitted in answer to questions. He says that male and female users in junior college and high school come from middle class families. This coincides with local scuttlebutt of recent vintage.

Pointedly, the youth declares that some young persons using drugs are in danger because they are doing things now that they wouldn't do if they did not use drugs.

Could some of them be responsible for numerous bizarre acts of vandalism throughout the Sedalia area? Such behavior indicates perpetrators are in euphoria or a state of non compos mentis.

If anyone thinks there is any easy solution to restraining the progressive mania of youth for drugs he is unrealistic. Right or wrong, the first impulse of critics is to blame the parents. But responsible parents, discovering drug use has penetrated their family, usually become frantic about what to do. Doing nothing, of course, is really contributing to the delinquency of their own minor children.

The young confessor who has renounced the stuff is an example of how others can be persuaded to do likewise by action of parental interest, control and education.

Pertinently, if not bluntly, his concluding comments become an editorial of the week. For those who may have missed it, it reads like this:

"Start with the parents. Start at home. By God, if the parents know about it they should do something about it. I think most of the parents in town are aware of it and they should do something to stop it. I think most parents know and are apathetic, or don't know how to control the kids that are using the stuff. If the parents took an active interest, I think it would help a great deal."

Cool Reception for Rail's Bail Out

WASHINGTON - The White House sent Secretary of Transportation John Volpe on a confidential mission to Capitol Hill last Monday night to sweet-talk Congress out of $750 million in the three days left for American railroads.

Anderson

The main pitch by the earnest Volpe at the after-hours meeting was funds to bail out Penn Central, which had filed bankruptcy papers over the weekend.

"Penn Central's payroll alone is $15 million this week, Volpe pleaded with the House and Senate mighty at the backroom session.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., listened skeptically to Volpe for a few minutes, then with a "humff" left the meeting. His "humff" was interpreted variously as anger and astonishment. Volpe continued to spell out his scheme for financing failing railroads with $750 million, which he emphasized would have to be rushed through Congress in three days. Not long after Mansfield's "humff," Sen. Steve

Young, D-Ohio, muttered: "Fantastic!"

Volpe looked around hopefully at the congressional foes after his 15-minute summary. There wasn't an encouraging smile in the room.

Calm, kindly Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., observed "There is an unreality to this laconically:

He insisted that hearings would have to be held. "I don't think 20 per cent of the nation's railroad transportation got in all this trouble in the past two weeks," Case said, counseling delay. -Bad Publicity-

House Republican Leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich., put it to Volpe straight: "You've got a helluva public relations problem.

The politically-minded Ford, presumably, referred to the exposes by this column and others that President Nixon's former law firm was in on the Penn Central case. Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy and U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain Walter Annenberg are also tied to the Penn Central case through past or present business deals. While Volpe listened sorrowfully, the congressional leaders talked of "maybe letting Penn Central collapse." Ford said, only halfjokingly: "Give them the shock treatment." Only Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, R-

Pa., stood up for the Nixon plan. He turned to Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., and said firmly: "I'll co-sponsor a bill with Maggie.

But Magnuson shied away. "It'd be better if I didn't," he said gently.

The hour-long session broke up with the congressmen agreeing that hearings were needed before they commit $750 million of the taxpayers' money. Volpe, dignified in defeat, quietly marched back down Capitol Hill.

Looking Backward

Ninety-three Years Ago Yesterday Mrs. Powhatan Wooldridge, one of the early residents of this county, celebrated her 86th birthday at the residence of her son, John M. Wooldridge, Esq., near this city, surrounded by her descendants. She is one of the pioneers of the New West. Fulfilling in her age the promise of her vouth, her life exemplifies the Christian's hope. All who know her love her, and her children rise up and call her blessed.

Forty Years Ago Plans for night baseball at Liberty Park have advanced to such a stage that the sport is almost assured for Sedalia according to Tommy Delph, C. E. Bayne, James Watkins and others who are heading the movement. The field has been plotted and diagrammed.

Twenty-five Years Ago Harve Points of Otterville while cutting wheat recently came upon and killed a blacksnake which had swallowed six hens and four ham bones.

-Another Nixon Casualty-

James Farmer, the most prominent Negro in the Nixon administration, may soon join other civil rights leaders who have quit or have been eased

Farmer's job as Assistant Secretary in charge of administration at the Health, Education, and Welfare Department is even now being cut out from under him, leaving him with lessened

The former CORE leader's genius has been in social planning.

High HEW sources have told this column that Farmer has let the administrative side of his job ke second place. Now this neglect is being used as an excuse to switch him to a lesser role.

Even before Secretary Robert Finch's transfer to the White House was announced, there was a move afoot to give Farmer a less prestigious Assistant Secretaryship. This would be called a "lateral transfer" to salve Farmer's pride

But Farmer, whose bitter days in a Mississippi jail for his "freedom-riding" have been forgotten by today's young black militants, has served notice on Finch that he "won't step down," that he'll quit rather than accept a demotion.

Reached at a conference in Aspen, Colo., Farmer conceded only that "for more than a year, reorganization has been discussed and I have participated in these discussions.'

Other HEW officials have said the discussions centered on removing such functions as personnel, management systems and general services from Farmer's bailiwick. So far President Nixon's new Secretary, Elliott Richardson, has made no final decision on Farmer's role.

Farmer is the man who put his job on the line in a showdown with John Bell Williams, Mississippi's segregationist governor, and won Finch's backing. This outraged some members of Nixon's kitchen cabinet, who like their politics Southern fried.

In addition, Farmer has become increasingly outspoken about the abyss between the White House and the black community, although he has stopped short of criticizing Nixon personally and

-Autos For China?-

The Detroit motor companies are beginning to look longingly at communist China. Confidental business reporting services out of Peking tell of 8,000 big trucks and construction vehicles paid for in hard cash by the mainland Chinese. The equipment was sold to China by Japan, France and Romania. West Germany also is getting in on the Chinese market to the tune of $150 million a year.

The American businessman, however, is not standing still. Subsidiaries of U.S. firms are cautiously meeting with Chinese communist representatives in Hong Kong to make sure they get into the mainland market-when and if the bamboo curtain is lifted.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: Of Snakes and Taxes.-We hear that Egyptian snake traders are up in arms (or snakes) because the government wants to tax their reptiles

The men who catch and rear snakes in the desert near the Pyramids say business is bad because of the war with Israel, and that they can't pay the $480 per trader the government is asking. They have a powerful weapon in their hands. They have threatened to turn their reptiles on the tax

Anyway, the snakemen say, they are contributing to the war effort. Egyptian troops training for guerrilla activity behind the Israeli lines in the Sinai desert learn to eat nonvenomous snakes as a survival diet, and the Army gets its supplies from the snake traders.

It's a sneaky, sorry, snaky story.

We admire the courage of the Reuters reporter who visited a snake traders' village. He found a little girl cradling a snake in her arms and caressing its head, and a woman feeding a batch of baby

It's a question of how you handle the reptiles, even the poisonous ones. The village headman says it's easy. We hope the tax collector knows.

The Shift of Power To White House

By BRUCE BIOSSAT Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) This whole thing involving the President, the White House establishment and the cabinet is a much stormier business than some government-watchers seem to have

Of course, there has been much guessing about the meaning of the big reorganization, but a good deal of it has been either too innocent or tinged too much with an attitude of patient "wait and see.

The reality is that President Nixon's creation of an Office of Management and Budget, with broad responsibility on George Shultz for dipping into department and agency operations, is a big whack at the cabinet system.

Evidently, not many know it, but when the new setup was first laid before the cabinet a few months ago, many members-in the words of a source close to some-"reacted violently.' Already deprived of power over policy through a process

House over recent years, the cabinet leaders fear, probably with sound reason, that the new creation will leave them very little useful control at all. The trouble with judging the change wisely is that personal power relationships got entangled, maybe inevitably.

of attrition that has seen this authority pass to the White in quite legitimate presidential concern over how to frame policy and get it past Washington's huge bureaucratic icebergs into the "open waters" of real execution. The charge on the President's Ash commission to review the cabinet system was laid out early in the game before the big chunks of power around the White House began to Nixon, from the outset, saw what any incoming president would have to see: The White House staff has been growing apace for years, not just to take on some of his inescapably enlarging burdens but to serve as a vital prod to the glacial bureaucracy. It was his early dream, publicly voiced before he took office, to somehow reverse the process-to streamline the departments, thrust power back into cabinet hands, compress the White House staff.

The actuality has been just the opposite. Even before the new reorganization plan surfaced, he had built the largest White House staff on record. Policy formation was concentrated in his establishment more than ever. The President's undeniable preference for foreign over domestic matters, moreover, created a great power void inside the White House which has been filled mainly by John Ehrlichman and Robert Haldeman.

By men who ought to know, they are described as supreme domestic power-wielders who work in close tandem. Haldeman is the final guardian of the President's door (deciding whom he shall see). Ehrlichman holds crucial policy sway over the wide domestic spectrum which the President tends to neglect.

It is the view of knowledgeable people with lines into the White House that somewhere along the route the Ash commission studies got diverted from Nixon's announced

What we have got, in fact, is a further enlargement of White House power, engulfing the already enormous but little appreciated anonymous authority of the Budget Bureau and further drawing off responsibilities hitherto invested in the cabinet system.

On the surface, a good case can be made for the reordering. Not only has the bureaucracy grown as an obstruction, but the White House staff, working as a prod, has been increasingly lost in a tangle of confusing decisionmaking. More bodies and better structure make sense, in theory.

But the realistic watchers say the true prospect is that matters will get worse, not better. They see another bureaucratic layer, potentially suffocating, being sand-wiched into the White House establishment itself—which already is topheavy with faceless power-users in crucial spots like the Budget Bureau.

And they see more power than ever, in the personal realm, for the void-filling team of Ehrlichman and Haldeman, notwithstanding George Shultz's imaginative capacity and the President's high regard for him.

The Blackwood convention is such an important part of expert bidding that no player can afford to leave it out of his bidding equipment.

Like any useful gadget it can be abused. Thus, there are certain rules for Blackwood use that you should endeavor to follow religiously. One is not to use it with a void or with a worthless doubleton in an unbid suit. Another is not to use it unless you know exactly what you will do depending on how many aces your partner shows you.

South had every right to bid again after his partner's jump to four spades since they were playing this bid as a good hand.

His choice of Blackwood four no-trump was a very bad one. He had a worthless doubleton in clubs. He had complete plans for what to bid if partner showed one ace. He couldn't know what to do if North showed two.

Six spades fell by the wayside in a matter of seconds. West opened the jack of clubs and the defense took the first two tricks.

Nothing can touch six diamonds or six no-trump if played by North. We don't know if they would have reached one of these nice contracts if South had bid five hearts instead of four no-trump.

This is a very hard hand to bid under any circumstances, but we do know that North might well have tried six diamonds over that five-heart bid and South might have passed. We do know that four no-trump surely led to the wrong con-

Letters to the Editor

JULIE ANIELAK, 651 East 13th, - This is written concerning an article appearing in Monday night's Sedalia Democrat. The article is a misrepresentation of the concert held Sunday at Liberty Park. It is evident to me that the writer of that article was not present at the scene Sunday, else he could not have, reported such a distorted view of the happenings there. He was most selective and misleading in the "facts" he reported.

First of all, the concert, the second of its kind, was not "impromptu" but had been planned a week prior to its actual date. It was ended when a park policeman turned off the electricity necessary to produce the music. However, it was not mentioned that the organizers of the concert had offered to pay for the electricity they used. Also, no one "loudly protested", and the implication that there could have been violence is ridiculous. The rock group did not continue playing without electricity, but a small group of people did assemble about the stage to hear the folk songs

It is unfortunate that the people of Sedalia recognize that the youth need more things to do and more places to go yet stifle attempts by the youth themselves to organize any such activities. Perhaps, when one wonders why the youth complain about the town and having nothing to do. this will be just another facet of the answer to that question - why?

FRANK FARMER, Sweet Springs, Mo. — While reading Monday's edition of the Sedalia Democrat I ran across an article that really upset me.

It seems a group of young people had gathered in the park to provide some entertainment for themselvees but their plan was thwarted. First of all I want it understood that I am not condemning the park officials. They are servants of the public and have a job to do like anyone else. I feel Sedalia is lucky to have youths such as they do. It is indeed a sad day when a city like Sedalia thwarts the efforts of kids trying to entertain themselves in an orderly manner, instead of them asking to be entertained. It was stated that there was no violence when the power was cut off, showing that the youths were there to have nothing but good clean entertainment, and not to cause any trouble.

I was not there myself, but I doubt if the music was actually that loud. When I was a teenager myself I played in several bands and it is a fact that whether the music is loud or not it carries in the open air for an amazingly long distance with much

A question I have been asking myself since reading that article in the paper is, "Why does the older generation feel ill at ease at watching youths enjoy themselves?" Is it the old self-centered outlook of, "If I can't enjoy myself, I don't want to see anyone else enjoy themselves!' Having friends and relatives in Sedalia I have been to many reunions in the park, but as yet have never seen any age limitations for people using the park. It seems as if the youth there Sunday were just not welcome in a park placed their for their

Naturally the younger generation thinks the older generation is out to put them down, and this was really proven Sunday.

I believe the youths there Sunday should be commended for trying to entertain themselves and should be invited back to the park to practice their music, and if they wish, have a music instructor to help them with their fine and most enjoyable pastime of playing in a band.

MRS. JAMES HANNING, 719 East 10th, -Hearing of the accident on highway 65 down by Fristoe, that took the lives of a father and mother of two little girls, also injuring them, was heart breaking.

There also was another accident a few months back, two miles south of Fristoe, when a car passing on a hill and curve ran head on into a school bus loaded with children. Fortunately no child was badly injured. The driver of the car was

I know the road well as I travel it often. There is a double yellow line for 97 per cent of 15 miles, or from Warsaw to the Hickory County line.

If they can't build a four-lane highway through there why can't the state put up a no passing sign for the next 15 miles, with a minimum speed of 40 miles. People become very impatient following cars and trucks for many miles at speeds of 20 or 30 miles an hour.

I have my first time to see a patrol car going through there. It is a very dangerous 15 miles.

Democrat Pickups

One of the girls in an office in Kansas City was going to have a Stanley party at 7:30 p.m. One girl had recently moved there from St. Louis and lived clear across town but she volunteered to pick up a girl who didn't live too far from her and then pick up a girl from Sedalia.

It was her job to find her way to the first girl's house; the second girl's job to find the way to the home of the Sedalia girl; and the Sedalia girl's job to find the way to the party.

There was considerable kidding among the other girls in the office that they wouldn't get there on time, they would probably get there an hour late. The first girl was all ready to leave when a neighbor dropped in. She explained to the neighbor she was just ready to leave for a party.

"Oh, that's fine," said the neighbor, and sat

The girl tried to be nice but she was on edge and finally got it across to the neighbor she just had to leave. Just as the neighbor left and she started out the door the telephone rang and by the time she got rid of the call it was 7 o'clock. She rushed out, got in her car, and not being familiar with that city, although it wasn't to far, couldn't find the first girl's house. When she did everything was fine. Now she turned the directions over to the other girl and relaxed. But not for long -the second girl got mixed up and they were completely lost for a while.

At last they reached the Sedalia girl's house and she had her directions straight, so they finally arrived at the party at 8:30 — just as the office girls had predicted — one hour late. The demonstrations were all over and the hostess had already picked

Next time they will know what to do when they go somewhere. They will start an hour early. H.L.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY-I have some pale green PLASTIC glasses that are the counterpart of certain more expensive GLASS tumblers on the market. I cannot get rid of this with dish detergent, kitchen cleanser, turpentine or even those scratchy pads. The more I rub the more the stuff spreads on the tumblers. Area Track Stars Advance to Haskell

Many local and area boys and girls qualified in the Western Missouri State Sub-District Championships, Saturday for the Missouri Valley District Championships of the Amateur Athletic Union's Junior Olympics program. The meet is being held Saturday at Haskell Institute in Lawrence, Kan.

Winners of the first three places in the intermediate and senior divisions, both boys and girls, will qualify for the next step on the AAU's tour - that being the Regional Eight Championships, which will be held at Arkansas State College (Conway) on July 18.

The Regional Meet will be the final stop for athletes before the national at the University of Tennessee, Aug. 11-12.

The Sedalia boys, who won both the intermediate and senior divisions Saturday, will be competing on an individual basis rather than in team standings.

One of the best hopes for the Sedalia squad will be the participation of Smith-Cotton's Paul Klover in three events two track and one field.

Saturday, Klover won both the 220-yard and 440-yard dashes, as well as taking the top place in the long jump.

Klover's winning time in the senior division 220 was :22.5; in the 440-yard event, he was clocked at :51.0, while in the long jump, his first-place leap was 20' 11".

During the regular school vear at Smith-Cotton this past track season, Klover established school marks in two of these three events.

His record in the 220 is :21.9; in the 440-yard dash, his time of :49.3 stands as one of the best in the state.

Other hopefuls in the boys senior division from Sedalia will also participate at Lawrence, Kan. Mark Hewitt, who finished in second place in the pole vault with a vault of 12'6", will make the trip, as well as Mike Heembrock, who was first in the one-mile race-walk; Charlie Moore, who finished second in the six-mile race-walk, third in the one-mile race-walk and fourth in the three-mile racewalk; C. E. Baldwin, who was fourth in the two-mile run; and Paul Siron, who was third in the six-mile race-walk. In the girls senior division, no local girls placed in the top four positions in the state meet last week, to earn a slot to this Saturday's meet.

Three boys in the intermediate division earned qualifications in seven different events.

They include: Pat Curry

Miss Anderson qualified by placing fourth in the 880-yard run; Miss Klover and Miss Patrick were third and fourth respectively in the discus. Included in the area

Senate Pays Tribute Texas Plane Crash To Veteran Mansfield Kills Four Persons

WASHINGTON (AP) - With the object of their affections out of sight but not out of mind, the Senate has paid a wordy tribute to Mike Mansfield, known for limiting his remarks to "Yep," "Nope," and "Maybe."

The occasion Thursday was to honor the Montana Democrat for serving as majority leader of the Senate longer than anyone before him-nine years and 173 days

That put him nine days up on his nearest rival, Kentucky Democrat Alben Barkley, who held the longevity record until he became vice president in 1949 under Harry S. Truman.

Taking time out from debate on the U.S. involvement in Cambodia, senators of both parties took the floor for more than two hours in their praise for Mansfield, whose own speeches are notable for being terse and to the point.

Assistant Democratic leader Edward M. Kennedy noted that fact, saying some politicians answer reporters' questions with long-winded phrases such as "I want to make one thing perfectly clear," or "Let me say this about that.

Kennedy said Mansfield has five standard responses:

"Yep," "Nope," "Maybe," "Could be," and "Don't know." But senators agreed the highlight of the tributes was by no means the shortest

It came in the form of a 14stanza poem written and recited by Vermont Sen. George Aiken, 77-year-old dean of Senate Republicans who has been Mansfield's steady breakfast companion for more than 10 years.

Aiken's debut as a Senate poet traced the Mansfield career in verse from the point nearly 10 years ago when Mansfield got the majority leader's job. Mansfield, answering not even with a "can't say," or a "don't know," remained silent and modestly out of sight until the trib-

Two men aboard the plane were identified by the Navy as Lt. (j.g.) Wesley B. Duerr, 26, an instructor, of Camp Springs, Md., and Lt. (j.g.) John B. Weller, 25, a student pilot, of Convent, N.J. They were based at Chase Field, a naval auxiliary air station at Beeville, Tex.

> The other dead were Saul Martinez, 44, and his son Eduardo, 23, newly returned from fighting in Vietnam.

Bodies of the fliers were found in the street and those of Martinez and his son in their home.

Police said discovery of a body of a cat in a burned car apparently led to a false report that a fifth person had been killed.

Mark Latson, 12, dashed from his home with clothing in flames moments after the plane struck. Hospital attendants described his condition as grave.

Most of the injured suffered burns while fighting the fire, officers said, and were dismissed after emergency treatment.

Jaycees Applaud President

ST. LOUIS (AP) - President Nixon, receiving a warm and boisterous reception from some 14,000 Jaycees Thursday, declared it is time to "stand up and speak about what is right about America."

"Because, you see," he said, what is right about America enables us to correct those things that are wrong about America.'

Addressing himself then to some of the problems confronting the nation, Nixon said of welfare reforms which he has advocated-"I say that when any system makes it more profitable for a man not to work than to work, when any system has the effect of encouraging a man to desert a family rather than to stay with it, it is time to abolish that system and get a better one."

Of Southeast Asia, Nixon said 265,000 Americans will be home by next spring. He added that this was in line with his pledge to end the war "in a way that their younger brothers and their sons would not have to fight in another Vietnam sometime in the future.

On the problem of the economy, Nixon blamed an increase in unemployment on a growing transition from a wartime to a peacetime economy, and declared: "But it is a cost that is worthwhile, because I say to you this economy is strong, this economy is sound, and it is time -and I believe this is the time -when America can demonstrate that we can have prosperity without war, prosperity with peace in the United States of America. That is our goal."

On the problem of inflation, Nixon blamed the shrinking power of the dollar on past government expenditures that exyou go home, look at the records of the various candidates and give support to those candidates, be they Democratic or Republicans, who have the courage and the character to vote against a spending program by government that would help some people but that would raise prices for all people."

To those who urge wage and price controls to curb inflation, he said, "Let's not make the mistake of replacing that system which got us where it has with one that will restrict that freedom, and also reduce the tremendous productive power, this engine of progress, that has made America what it is."

On the problem of pollution, Nixon said there is an administration program before Congress and warned "as we look ahead, 10, 15, 20 years from now, unless we act now, we can have the most productive economy in the world, but we will have cities that are choked with traffic, suffocated by smog, poi-

Troops Break Up Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) - A large enemy force tried to capture one of the Cambodian army's largest supply depots only 20 miles north of Phnom Penh Thursday but government troops seemed to have broken up the attack after 10 hours of fighting.

The attack on the depot at Long Vek, which was defended by more than a regiment of infantry, was launched just after midnight with a heavy mortar barrage covering an infantry assault.

A second force seized a Buddhist shrine at Udong and cut off reinforcements by road to Long Vet, three miles to the north. Although none of the main temples at the shrine were destroyed, one was heavily damaged and many buildings were destroyed by rockets and Cambodian troops retook most of the shrine after suffering two killed and about 10 wounded. A dozen Viet Cong and North Vietnamese bodies were found.

There were no reports of casualties in the fighting at Long Vek. There were some reports that the enemy wanted to overrun the depot to replenish munitions and other supplies now that many caches have been captured by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops in former sanctuaries to the east.

With possible half of Cambodia under enemy control, the Cambodian government declared general mobilization and made all Cambodians from 18 to 60 subject to a military call-up.

The declaration also decreed that all national resources considered vital for defense are subject to government control.

Hospital Bill Is Still Alive

the Senate. If the Senate follows the House, it will be the first time Congress has overridden a Nixon veto and the first presidential veto to be overridden since 1960 when the late Dwight D. Eitain his position. Nixon, when he vetoed the bill, described as "one of the most unacceptable provisions" a requirement that funds provided in the bill must be spent and not withheld. He also complained that it exceeded his budget plans for the fiscal year beginning July 1 by more than $350 million.

Administration Drops Textile Opposition

a peaceful settlement of the WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon's administration dropped its opposition to textile import quota legislation Thursday and a limitation bill moved toward a House vote in July.

> Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans told the House Ways and Means Committee collapse of negotiations with Japan for a voluntary agreement led to "our reluctant judgment that the only means presently available for solving this problem is the textile legislation now before this committee."

But Stans maintained opposition to the portions of the bill that would set quotas for footwear-which like textiles has been entering the country in increasing volumes.

He asked also that the measure be modified to allow the President to waive quotas on behalf of a particular country or product on a finding that imports are not causing or threatening disruption. Moreover, Stans asked that unprocessed manmade fibers and silk products be excluded from the bill.

Some 250 House members. headed by Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills. D-Ark., have introduced bills for quotas on textiles, apparel and footwear, with provisions that a country that negotiated a voluntary limitation could be freed from the quota.

Mills told newsmen he will begin executive sessions Monday on trade measures, including the quota bill, and expects to report legislation to the House by July 20. A major question for the committee will be whether to retain the quota provisions on footwear. Some members expressed doubt that a quota bill on textiles alone would pass. The textile industry is concentrated largely in the Southeast, while footwear factories are widely dispersed, but are especially important economically in New England.

Stans testified that, since negotiations failed, the administration can see no way except quota legislation to help the huge textile industry which, he said, employs 2.4 million persons, one out of every eight employed in manufacturing.

The much smaller shoe industry, he said, might have its problems under existing procedures, some of which the administration wants liberalized, for special aid to import-damaged

Condition of the Times

The Sedalia police department budget for fiscal 1970-71 may cause the mayor and city councilmen to do some squirming in their seats at city hall when submitted next month.

But as Chief William Miller observes "it reflects the condition of the times." The request is for $282,556.80 an increase of $45,405. Allocated for salaries is $232,300.95.

Continued growth of the city, despite the census enumeration pint-size figures, the objective of a 40-hour week and continued emphasis on qualified personnel, are not accomplishments that can be had without adequate funds. The need for them is not any new local aberration. The trend for improved and expanded law enforcement agencies is

The crime problem about which so much complaint is heard today is not going to be minimized without additional cost to the taxpayers. Moreover, the solution is a local matter rather than a federal one, according to independent business men. This conclusion is indicated from results of special surveys by the National Federation of Independent Business.

Pertinent to conditions locally, even though independent businessmen are concerned about local taxes, when it comes to crime control, the survey so far in eight states indicates these taxpayers are willing to have tax dollars made available for more police officers in their communities, or higher pay for guardians of the law, or both.

In the states of Missouri, West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, the initial survey reveals that businessmen feel that the most effective curb for crime requires more policemen in their communities; but they also believe even more emphatically there should be a better pay arrangement for police officers. Furthermore, the high percentages reveal that local police forces enjoy a high degree of respect from independent businessmen.

Interesting, too, is the very high percentages of businessmen in favor of faster court action in law violation cases.

These are aspects upon which the city fathers will undoubtedly reflect seriously when considering the estimated expenses for the Sedalia police department when the 1970-71 budget comes up for their attention.

Youth's Goal: Deeds Not Dreams

WASHINGTON - America's questing youth, fiercely idealistic, impatient for change, have been unleashed for the summer.

The view from the bottom of the mountain may be discouraging. The Pike's Peak problems may seem too staggering for any individual to tackle. But great mountains are climbed a step at a time, and great events are produced from small acts.

The young who believe in the future, who aren't yet ready to resign from the human race, should take the initiative. Let me make a few modest suggestions:

1. Stir the starry-eyed from their pseudoromantic dreams; rouse them to their feet; inspire them to substitute deeds for dreams. Invite the militants down from their soapboxes; challenge them to exchange their rhetoric for practical solutions.

2. Fill your summer with constructive, not destructive activity. If you can find no great cause, settle for a small cause. Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q) What should I do about a delayed refund?

A) If you have not heard anything about your refund and it has been 10 weeks since you mailed in your return, then you should call your local IRS office. You should wait 10 weeks before calling as this period of time is generally sufficient for the refund to be issued or a letter sent to the taxpayer explaining why it is delayed. To call before 10 weeks can delay the processing of your return.

When inquiring about a missing or delayed refund, give your name, current address, Social Security number and the date the return was filed.

Q) If I provide room and board for a student this summer, can I claim any deduction for what I

A) If the student is a member of your household under a written agreement between you and a qualified organization in order to provide him educational opportunities, then your costs may be deductible as a charitable contribution. The deduction must be for a full-time student up to the 12th grade, who is neither your dependent nor relative, at an educational institution located in the United States. The amount of the deduction may not exceed $50 times the number of full calendar months of your tax year during which the student is a member of your household.

Q) Will I get a reminder notice on my June estimated tax payment?

A) Yes, the IRS will send reminder notices on the second installment due June 15, to all those who received estimated income tax forms earlier this year. Anyone receiving a notice who is not required to make a payment should ignore it.

Use a voucher number 2 to make the June payment. This voucher identifies the payment since it carries the taxpayer's name, address and Social Security number. For your convenience, envelopes addressed to the service center were provided in the 1040-ES package.

President Nixon's tight-money policy has been self-defeating in a number of ways. The President's objective, of course, has been to curb inflation by forcing companies and individuals to buy less. It is not clear just how much tight money has helped toward this aim. But one thing is certain: the tight money has upped the cost of money and that, in turn, has helped to force prices up across the board. A-Tapeworms often cause no symptoms but they may cause abdominal discomfort, diarrhea, loss of weight and a feeling of hunger. Q-I recently passed a tapeworm. How did I get it? How can I be sure I don't have any more?

A-Tapeworm eggs of three different species may be swallowed with uncooked beef, pork or fish. Following treatment to eliminate the worm a careful examination of the stool by a doctor must be made. Even though you pass several inches of segmented worm you will have a recurrence unless the tiny head was passed.

Q-Will X rays show whether I have a tapeworm? Is it possible to have a tapeworm in the brain, heart or liver?

A-X rays will not reveal the presence of a tapeworm. The beef and fish tapeworms do not infest any part of the body except the intestines but the pork tapeworm eggs may invade any organ. For this reason prompt thorough treatment should be instituted as soon as the diagnosis is made. The best treatment is prevention-eat only wellcooked pork products.

Dallas expert Bud Creed. formerly of Youngstown, doesn't look the least bit like a Greek. This may be one reason why West failed to fear him when he made him a nice present of three heart

Opening lead—♥ 6

Bud's ace of hearts won the first trick over East's king. In rubber bridge Bud would have led a diamond and gone right up with dummy's ace to guard against the possibility of a singleton king. This was dup-licate and since Bud saw that his three no-trump contract was a normal one, he finessed dummy's queen. East took his singleton king and returned a heart. Bud won with the queen and West dropped the deuce to show that he had led from a fivecard suit.

Now Bud led a diamond to dummy's ace and paused for realignment when East showed out. Most other declarers just gave up and settled for down one but Bud decided to play on for his contract.

He led a spade back to his king and threw West in with a heart. West was so happy with the nice windfall that he cashed his three good hearts and then led a diamond to Bud's jack.

At this point everyone was down to four cards. Dummy held ace-small of spades and king - s m all of clubs. Bud held a small spade and his original three clubs. It didn't matter what West held while poor East held a forlorn expression. He needed to hold three clubs in order to stop that suit and two spades in order to stop spades. You can't hold three clubs and two spades among just four cards. Bud made the rest of the tricks and a very satisfactory score.

Tedium? Never

for Volunteers

While somebody is asking those questions. somebody else is waiting in line. And they are going to say, "Listen, do I ever have a good idea for YOU!" or, "Here's something I want you to say."

Not that a writer can use many of their suggestions. Unless, that is, a writer cares to be sued for slander, jailed, ridden out of town on a rail or, quite possibly, murdered in his bed some night. It goes without saying there is no dearth of publicity releases and charming accounts of how a certain manufacturer's soap or shoes is exactly what we've been praying for. But, also, in the past few months, I have been asked to give out a "cure" for arthritis, write gossip about a woman's neighbor, print several poems, plead for various religious and political causes.

And there are always those who want me to tell outright lies. Take the woman who says I should write that volunteering to help out at school results in an afternoon of tedium. (That's what I said -

Such a request only shows she has never volunteered. Anyone who has volunteered to assist in a school project knows the result is not tedium

Any woman who has ever stared 83 secondgraders in the mouth while assisting with the school's dental program, well, she will tell you that's not tedium.

And what about room mothers? They're only at it for an hour at a time, but I can tell you that counting cookies and little hands, then making sure everything comes out reasonably even and tidy, can be nerve-wracking, not enervating. ("Haven't you already been up here twice, Hughie?" "Jennie, dear, we do not soak our napkins in the fruit punch, do we? I know it colors it pretty, but ..." "Bill, you stick your finger into one more cupcake ...") Any father who has agreed to be a driver for basketball games, now he could tell us something. But I'll guarantee the paper would never print it. Being a chaperone on a school trip is hardly boring. And, by the way, why do they call these trips "cultural tours" or "enrichment programs" when a more accurate description would be "exercise in bedlam"? Then there are those who ride on band buses. (Stop that, trumpets!" "Where are the rest of the trombones?" "Now, remember, when the game is over we are to assemble at the SOUTH end of the

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: The Cherished Flag. - Americans are rallying round the flag these days, as the visible symbol of - to speak a common phrase — the land they love. Whenever the nation has seemed threatened, there has been this kind of upsurge. Today the threat may be internal rather than external; the reaction

Flag manufacturers say their greatest sales boom followed the Vietnam demonstrations in Washington. Perhaps the carrying of the Viet Cong banner by a few extremists had some slight impact. We like to think the basic sentiment is that expressed by President Wilson when he proclaimed Flag Day (June 14) in 1917: "This flag is the emblem of our unity, our power, our thought and purpose as a nation." He added: "It has no other character than that which we give it from generation to generation."

Surely the character Americans wish to give their flag today is as the symbol of a nation believing in racial equality, compassion toward the downtrodden, a speedy and honorable laying down of arms, economic well-being, scientific progress-Basically, malice toward none and charity for all.

No other nation, we are told, demands such reverence for its flag. Antidesecration state laws began to be enacted in World War I. In 1969 a federal statute was passed. The British put the Union Jack on shopping bags. The French use the tricolor in fashion designs. So be it. In one sense, the flag is simply a length of colored bunting. But Americans clothe it with their idealism, their fondest hopes for the country's future. They would have their nation merit the pride they feel when a million Stars and Stripes wave on Flag Day, or when Old Glory stands silent sentinel among the craters of the moon.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY-I wish someone would tell me how to fix my son's jeans that have a big bleach spot on them. He dropped bleach on them and now wants me to remove all the blue dye and redye them. He tried but was unsuccessful. I would appreciate someone telling me what to do.—MRS. M. R.

DEAR MRS. M. R.—My grandsons always want even new jeans bleached so they look old and faded before they are ever worn. They throw new ones in the washing machine after adding bleach to the water. Perhaps your son would be interested in introducing that fad to his group.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—In response to Mrs. M. O. C.'s question regarding ink that had leaked from a ball-point pen on to rhinestone earrings, I would like to suggest soaking them in equal parts of ammonia and water.—MRS. A. G.

DEAR GIRLS—To be perfectly frank, I could not get ink to stick to a piece of costume jewelry but I have used an ammonia-and-water solution to clean jewelry in an emergency. Do be careful about the soaking as any cement used on such pieces could be loosened.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY-My kitchen tongs were always getting caught as I closed the drawer but I remedied this by laying a very small jar, such as a baby food jar, in the drawer and slipping the ends of the tongs into it.

I always save those foam trays that meat comes in, wash and store them to have on hand when taking cookies to my grandchildren or to a shut-in. Of course, I cover the tray and the cookies with clear plastic wrap. This eliminates the bother of returning a plate and the possibility of

KANSAS CITY (AP)-Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick told fellow democrats Thursday "We will have our hands full this fall resisting a well-organized. well-financed, energetic Republican onslaught."

He said it was recently reported up to $2 million will be spent this year in behalf of Republican Attn. Gen. John C. Danforth's campaign against Democratic U.S. Sen. Stuart Symington.

'Even with saturation use of television and radio," he said. "even with millions of dollars for all kinds of advertising newspapers. billboards-I don't believe the people of Missouri can be hoodwinked to accept a minority party freshman senator as a replacement for a distinguished leader with enormously important, well-earned assignments to such vital senatorial committees as aerospace. armed services and foreign affairs.

Kirkpatrick also spoke in behalf of State Auditor Haskell Holman, whom he called "an experienced administrator." Congressman William R. Hull, D-Weston, and the Democratic members who control the Missouri House and Senate.

In a speech prepared for a testimonial dinner honoring State Rep. Charles Broomfield, D-Kansas City, Kirkpatrick said of the race between Holman and his GOP challenger, Christopher (Kit) Bond of Mexico:

'We need an auditor, not an orator. We need a pro, not an amateur. We need a man who knows his job, not a man who needs a job to make a gesture.'

In the Legislature, he said, "We need Democrats with good records, not Republicans with gaudy promises.

"As Democrats, we can be comforted by the fact we start the 1970 campaign with an advantage. There are 35 representative and senatorial districts without a Republican candidate. Only nine districts are without a Democratic candidate.'

He said Missouri is faced with a critical financial problem that will have to be solved by the 1971 Legislature.

Soybeans, Grain Advance On Board Of Trade

When the session had ended. soybeans futures had advanced 7 cents a bushel, the biggest one-day move since June 5. 1967. when Israeli forces invaded the United Arab Republic. Corn futures moved ahead by nearly 4 cents, wheat nearly 3 cents and oats 23/8 cents.

New highs were set in wheat. corn, soybeans and soybean meal futures.

Trade was mixed and very active, possibly the most active session of the year.

Man Cleared In Insurance Fraud Case

Pettis County Prosecutor Henry Keeler Thursday morning dropped the state's case against Dennis Lee Rose, 1010 West Sixth, who was arraigned June 18 in Magistrate Court on charges of stealing and fraud in connection with an insurance swindle.

Rose was arrested after Nancy L. Jenkins, 914 South Beacon, told insurance investigators that Rose was one of three men who swindled her out of $30. In her original statement, Miss Jenkins said the three told her that since her insurance company was going out of business she would have to pay $30 to keep her present policy.

This week Miss Jenkins explained that only one of the three men told her the story and that Rose and another man were not present when the third man took her money. Rose was not involved, she said. The two other men, Benny Joe Jaynes, Galt, Mo., and William Bishop, Marshall, Mo., are facing charges of fraud and misrepresentation in Johnson and Henry Counties. Rose has not been charged in either area.

Rose was originally held on $2,500 bond, but he was later released on a reduced $500 bond.

Hope Links Old and New

By JOAN CROSBY

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — It's a modest corner home in this chic desert community. A swimming pool glistens in the front yard, empty except for Bob Hope's navy - one large and two small rubber

Mike, the master's 9-year-old faithful friend poodle, announces Hope's arrival by his sudden spurt of excitements. One of the most famous, most recognizable Americans enters in blue-and-white checked slacks and a white shirt looking happy, relaxed and ridiculously young for a man who says he is 67.

Say Hope's name to anyone, and minds race to the extraordinary job he has done entertaining servicemen over the years.

The area where you don't think of Hope is on a college campus. Yet since last October he has spoken to more than 100,000 students in campus engagements - and they dig each other.

He says, "I think they think I'm their age because they see so many of my old movies on television.

Polls have indicated that students do indeed identify with Hope. A student poll conducted by the Reader's Digest to find the most popular stars of the '60s had him second to The Beatles. A poll of Catholic college graduates to determine their most-admired heroes had him seventh.

"College kids are so concerned and they are so marvelous," he says. "The other night I took a walk here about 1 a.m. and I ran into some kids all dressed up from a rom. One saw me and said. Thank you for all the nice things you have done for servicemen. Wasn't that sweet?

"There are no demonstrations in Russia. Demonstrations are a great freedom we enjoy. There was one dissident in Red Square once, yelling funny things and he was a Peopleburger in 15 minutes. He'll never get out of Siberia."

Hope, who will receive his 15th and 16th honorary degrees shortly (Doctor of Laws from Pace College and Doctor of Humane Letters from the University of Nevada), has not had any problems from jeering students. Earlier this month he spoke at the University of Maryland, just after President Nixon had taken his early morning trip to the Lincoln Memorial to talk to the kids there.

> EXPERT REPAIR Electric Appliances and Power Tools

Uncle Dave Mabry's APPLIANCE &

314 E. Main 826-7014

"I remarked about the President's trip and said, 'If I had his job, I probably couldn't sleep either.' One kid went, 'Ooooh' and I said, 'That's why we're fighting, so you can do that.'"

Hope is building a home on a hilltop overlooking the desert. The model of the house occupies a tabletop in his present yard. "It looks like TWA West," he says of the cantilevered roof with the flying wings and the center opening over a courtyard and pool. It contains separate guest quarters, a swimming pool that looks like a lake and room for a golf course "where Spiro Agnew can come and knock down the mountainside.'

A pad in Palm Springs is a building lot, and Hope has seven of them for his house. He drives you proudly to the site. The view from the pad which will have the private living quarters is amazing for its rugged beauty.

Driving down, a guest can't resist looking back and saying, "Be it ever so humble. . . '

Hope laughs and says, "I'll put that on my gate.'

College Dissent Is Reported on Channel 5 Friday

KCMO-TV 5 will present another in a series of their award-winning documentaries, "The Difference Between Us," at 6:30 p.m. Friday.

This half hour examines the extent of student support in campus dissent and whether campus demonstrations really reflect the feelings of the students in general.

Another facet of the program is a look at the political differences between young and old in an attempt to determine whether the "generation gap" is fact or myth.

"The Difference Between Us" is directed by Don Erdman and produced by the KCMO News and Public Affairs Departments.
